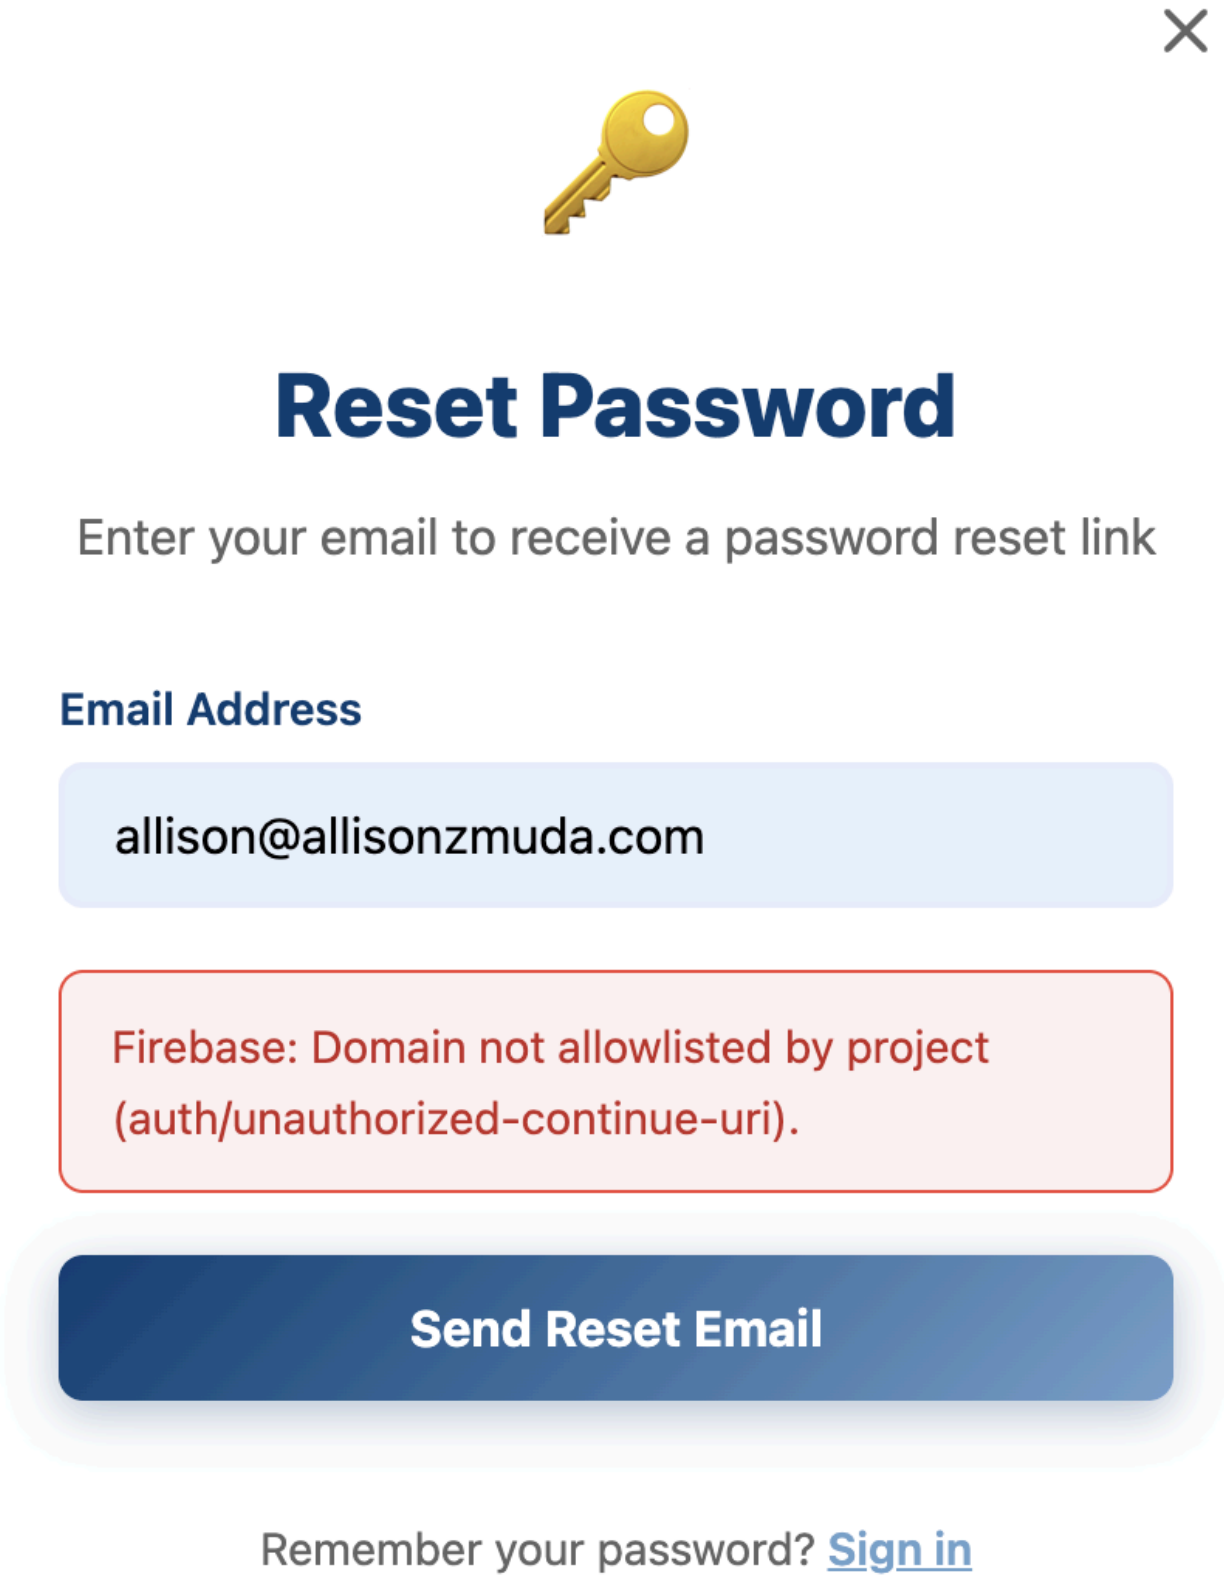
Hi Tucker,
First of all thank you for the updates you made. Really well done!

1. Still having issues with signing in to premium accounts. Password doesn’t work and when I ask to reset this pops up:



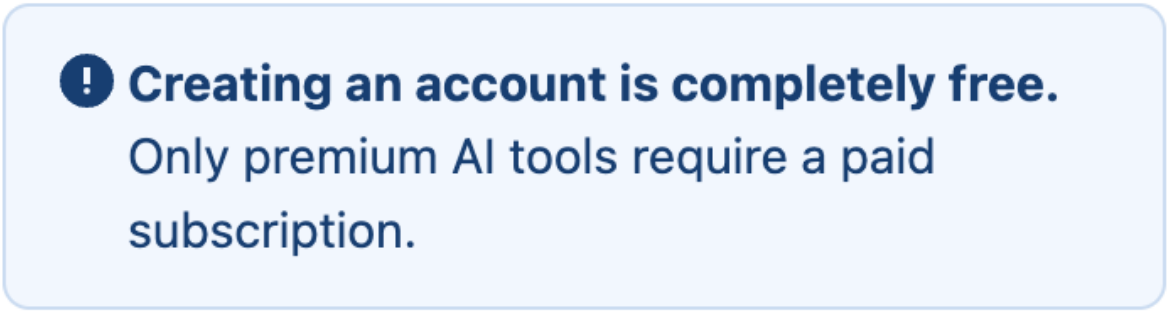
This was something that Bena alerted me to first and I replicated on mine.

2. Habits of Mind menu drop down
- difficult to click on items on the sublist - not sure if this is fixable
- additional perspectives of parents and employees are missing. These were on the old site
- pdf downloads aren't working
- originally you could navigate across the perspectives for each habit. For example you could see persisting through a parent, teacher, leader, employer or student. Is it possible to get that back?

3. Specific items for What are habits subsets
- For LEADERS: Please remove leadership competencies
- For TEACHERS:
    - Download a complete teacher guide is an overreach. It is download a companion guide to begin to incorporate each of the habits with your students.
    - When you look at the bottom buttons, is the first button giving the same pdf as the top button on the teachers page?
    - when you click the lesson builder button it immediately takes you to the sign in page. There should be a place where all of the premium resources are described as well as the terms for signup and cancellation policies.
- For STUDENTS

4. Premium tools immediately goes to sign up
- again can we clarify what the tools are and the details for sign up?

5. When you go to blogs and click an article … this pops up and only when I hit sign in do I see this message:



Would love to have this message when I click read more … rather than having to create account or sign in. This is where confusion sets in (based on email I cc:ed you on).

6. Clean up existing oddballs. Even though you may be doing this over time, the resources page still needs a quick spruce up. For example: on the first row of 3 I see this:

The Impact of Habits of Mind HoM based S
